

Document Analysis Jigsaw

Directions: Fill in the chart for your assigned document. Be ready to teach the other members of your group about your document's main ideas. Fill in the remaining rows in the chart as you listen to your groupmates.

Document	One-sentence summary of author's argument	Author's top three pieces of supporting evidence	Connections to Declaration of Sentiments (1848)	Rate how persuasive it is (scale from 1–10), explain your rating
Angelina Grimké, Appeal to the Christian Women of the South (Excerpt), 1836
Sarah M. Grimké, Letter on the Equality of the Sexes and the Condition of Woman (Excerpts), 1837

Document	One-sentence summary of author's argument	Author's top three pieces of supporting evidence	Connections to Declaration of Sentiments (1848)	Rate how persuasive it is (scale from 1–10), explain your rating
Lucretia Mott, Discourse on Woman (Excerpts), 1849
Sojourner Truth, Ain't I a Woman? (Excerpts) and Women's Convention, Akron, Ohio, 1851

SUMMARY QUESTIONS

1. To what extent do these authors make any arguments that might be controversial today? Be specific.

2. Which author did you find most persuasive? Justify your response.
3. Choose two of the authors and compare their main ideas.

4. Choose one author and create a twitter handle and tweet that creatively summarizes the main idea(s) in their document.

Handout C: Page 3

Summary Questions

1. To what extent do these authors make any arguments that might be controversial today? Be specific.
2. Which author did you find most persuasive? Justify your response.
3. Choose two of the authors and compare their main ideas.
4. Choose one author and create a twitter handle and tweet that creatively summarizes the main idea(s) in their document.